

Malaria Deaths In Africa: 2000-2018

Africa has a high rate of malaria deaths. The following graph shows data collected of the number of malaria death in Africa from 2000- 2018. According to the graph, 2003 had the highest rate of malaria deaths with 176,833 annual deaths and 2010 as sceond highest with 170,866 annual deaths. But there's been a continues decline in the number of malaria deaths from 2016 -2018.

We also see that Kenya is the country with highest annual malaria death cases in the continent, with an avarage annual deaths of 25,030 deaths or 68.57 daily deaths. 2003 had the most number of malariay deaths with 51,842 people dying in kenya due to malaria.

The Democratic Republic Of Congo is the country with second highest number of malaria related deaths, with the yearly average number of deaths being 18,241. The graph below shows the drastic increase in malaria related deaths in the Democratic Republic Of Congo from 2003 with 989 annual deaths to 2004 to 13,613 annual deaths. The death rates continued to increase with 2015 showing as the year with highest malaria deaths.

